About me

I am committed to continuous career development as a programmer, actively expanding my skills in software development and web application design. My motivation stems from the pursuit of diverse experiences with various technologies and tools to ensure ongoing growth. I have practical experience in creating projects using C#, HTML, JavaScript, and PHP. Additionally, I possess skills in database management with PostgreSQL and MySQL, which I utilized during my studies for implementing and maintaining databases in web applications. In my free time, I am dedicated to enhancing my programming skills, including proficiency in Java.
